

Tentative Agreement Ends Railroad Tieup

NEW YORK (AP) — A two-week-old harbor strike that had caused a paralyzing railroad tieup throughout much of the East was ended today by tentative agreement on a new work pact.

Mediators, including President Kennedy's new secretary of labor, Arthur J. Goldberg, met in a marathon 14-hour session that ended with the announcement of a settlement at 6:18 a.m.

The strike of railroad tug and ferry boat workers against 11 railroads that operate in New York harbor had crippled the city's commuter transportation, forcing 100,000 persons to look for other means of getting to and from work.

Pickets in Kingston

Several pickets said to be from the Marine Division, International Seafarers Union, were active in Kingston over part of the weekend. Police headquarters was notified at 7:20 p.m., Saturday that they were walking in the vicinity of the railroad overpass on Broadway and near the front of the West Shore freight station. A few, apparently unaware that the station on Railroad Avenue, has been closed for more than two years, were reported walking there for a short time.

The walkout of the 664 workers in three marine unions on Jan. 10 had also virtually shut down the New York Central and the New Haven railroads.

Both roads said they hoped to get back into operation by Tuesday morning.

The striking marine unions, besides the Seafarers, were Marine Engineers Beneficial Association and the International Organization of Masters, Mates and Pilots.

After Seafarer pickets showed up at the big union terminal in Cleveland, Ohio, Sunday, the Central—the nation's second largest—practically shut down its Western division. Its Eastern division had been hit last week.

The idle train crews were not directly involved in the dispute, but they refused to cross marine picket lines.

Most of the Central's remaining passenger and freight trains were canceled Saturday night by the extension of picketing to stations or yards at Albany, Syracuse and Niagara Falls.

The key to the settlement was an agreement to postpone the touchy issue of job security. The unions had asked to have present five-man tug crews remain frozen. But operators wanted any

Lattintown Blaze Kills Woman and Teen Sister

A series of costly fires were reported over the weekend, one of which took the lives of a young married woman and her teenage sister Saturday evening when a two-room cinderblock house on the Lattintown road, Marlborough, was gutted by fire apparently caused by a defective space heater.

Fires on Weekend Claim 39 Persons, 20 Are Children

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Weekend fires across the nation took the lives of at least 39 persons, including 20 children.

In Pasadena, Md., flames broke out in a frame house early today and seven young children and an adult caring for them were killed.

The dead were Donald L. Green, 9 months; his sisters and brothers, Maryland, 2; Winifred, 3; Yvette, 4; Joeling, 5; Aaron, 6; a cousin, Regina Wright, 10, and an uncle, Bernard Green, 33.

Visiting Neighbors

Parents of the Green children, Negroes, were visiting neighbors when the blaze broke out shortly after midnight in the community halfway between Annapolis and Baltimore.

In New York early Sunday, a mother and six of her nine children died when a fire swept through their tenement apartment in the Williamsburg section of Brooklyn.

The victims were Anna Fancher, 36, and Charles, 4; Howard, 9; Josephine, 7; Nancy, 3; Florence, 2, and Helen, 1.

Police theorized that Charles might have started the blaze in playing with matches. He was spanked a month ago by his father for playing with them.

Oil Stove Explodes

The explosion of an oil stove was blamed for a fire Saturday that killed two persons in Marlboro, N.Y. Judy Boykin Whitted, 19, and her sister, Anna P. Boykin, 14, died in the blaze that destroyed their two-story house.

Another fire in New York was believed to have killed Adda Wright, 72, a hotel clerk, when flames wrecked the headquarters of the famed Chautauqua institution in Chautauqua.

Computer Tired, Duplicate Checks Sent 200 Clients

NEW YORK (AP) — Duplicate year-end dividend checks have been sent out to about 200 clients of a New York brokerage firm as the result of a computer machine going whacky.

"These machines get tired just like everybody else," said a spokesman for Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith, Inc., in explaining the mistake.

He said part of a steel tape feeding information to the machine had run through twice, causing each stockholder involved to be sent two checks instead of one.

"We can't be sure exactly how many checks or how much money was involved," the spokesman said, "since we can't tell just where the tape duplication stopped."

He said in case the duplicate checks are cashed, rather than returned, the fact will show up in canceled checks and the extra payment will be deducted from future dividends.

In a third fire incident Mrs. Anna Hommell, 70, of West Saugerties, was taken to the Kingston Hospital by H & S Ambulance, Saugerties, this morning after her housecat caught fire.

Hospital authorities reported that she is in fair condition. A description of her burns was not immediately available.

A fourth area fire extensively damaged an apartment on the fourth floor of a Poughkeepsie building about 4 p.m. Sunday. This blaze is also believed to have originated in an oil heater located in a front bedroom.

Highland state police said that Mrs. Whitted and her sister occupied a small two-room cinderblock house owned by Anthony Favata of Marlborough.

Two Away Shopping

Mrs. Whitted's husband, 23, and Irving Boykin, 18, a brother of the victims, left the dwelling about 8 p.m. to go grocery shopping in the village of Marlborough, state police said.

They returned about 11 p.m. to find the structure afame. The Marlborough Fire Department was at the scene but the dwelling was gutted before the fire could be extinguished.

The bodies of the two girls were found near the door charred beyond recognition.

At the scene were Highland troopers and Town of Marlborough Constable John Espo.

Legislature Gets 6 Reports Charging Mismanagement in New York Boroughs

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — A state commission submitted to the Legislature today six staff reports charging the New York City borough presidents' offices with mismanagement, poor management and obsolete business practices.

The operations condemned were in the fields of highway maintenance, asphalt production and sewer maintenance.

The staff reports were submitted by Frank C. Moore, chairman of the State Commission on Governmental Operations of the City of New York.

Moore, a former lieutenant governor and state comptroller, is a Republican. The Legislature is Republican controlled, and the presidents of all five of the city's boroughs are Democrats.

A number of reports on the city already had been filed by the commission.

The Moore commission today took up the operation of asphalt plants in each of the five boroughs and said "the findings demonstrate clearly the need for a change in the present system."

The report said costs of street paving materials varied from $5.82 to $21.07 a ton and that production of materials ranged from "fairly modern" to "primitive."

While one plant would operate at 100 per cent of capacity, another functions at only 14 per cent, with labor costs of the materials ranging from $1.93 to $11.26, it said.

The Moore commission recommended city wide control of the asphalt operation with introduction of modern business practices.

The city's highway maintenance program was assailed.

The Moore group commented that the average cost to the city of producing, transporting and laying a ton of surfacing material is $41.79 while "a repair of city streets rarely exceed $26 per ton for labor and materials and frequently cost less than $20 per ton."

The Moore commission said the city wastes money by using "hand spreading" methods instead of

"machine spreading" techniques used by private contractors in repairing street paving materials. And it accused the borough presidents' offices of "poor administrative procedures, looseness of controls and weakness in management."

In all, it was charged, there was "inadequate central scheduling, coordination, and utilization of men, materials and machines by the city."

The borough presidents' offices were criticized on road repair work, the commission said a "road repair" "road repairs are slow in all boroughs... procedures are cumbersome... planning, coordination and controls are weak and regulations governing permits are inequitable between boroughs."

In another report, which the others called for centralization of scope and supervision, the committee charged that in their operation of sewers "not one borough meets the standards established by the water pollution control federation for an effective and economical operation."

The state Constitution bars state aid to schools run by churches.

Rockefeller and legislative leaders are drafting the program to help public and private colleges expand in the face of rapidly rising demands for admission.

Senate Majority Leader Walter J. Mahoney and Assembly Speaker Joseph F. Carlino called Republican members of their houses into separate conferences.

Final Votes in Weeks

Today's discussions were to be informal, GOP leaders will report to Rockefeller Tuesday on rank-and-file reaction to the proposals.

A final vote is not expected for weeks.

The plan for state help to church-affiliated schools is expected to stir controversy among both Republicans and Democrats.

The state Constitution bars state aid to schools run by churches. Rockefeller and legislative leaders have been exploring ways of giving state aid directly to students at private schools. They would turn it over to their respective institutions through higher tuition. This method, some Republicans say, would not conflict with constitutional ban.

The program also calls for expansion of the State University and more state scholarships as part of a broad plan to meet what educators term a crisis in higher education.

Decisions Uncertain

No final decisions on the form of aid have been reached.

Rockefeller plans to submit a formal program on higher education to the Legislature in a special message, possibly this week.

The governor spent much of the weekend attempting to help settle a strike by railroad tugmen in New York City. Picketing by marine unions has stalled railroad service throughout much of the East.

The governor's schedule has been thrown off by his activities in connection with the strike and his education message may be delayed, a spokesman said Sunday.

In other legislative-government developments:

1. Administration bills slated for introduction today would extend to more dockworkers and waterfront unions the regulations established by the New York

Waterfront Commission in its drive to eliminate racketeering from the docks.

2. The Diefendorf Committee on public school financing scheduled public hearings Jan. 31 in Albany, Feb. 2 and Feb. 8 in New York City.

The committee will recommend changes in present methods of financing elementary and secondary education.

Program Aids Rail

3. A four-state committee, including a New York representative, proposed a $13.7 million annual program to help the New Haven Railroad weather a financial crisis. The aid would be shared by New York, Massachusetts, Connecticut and Rhode Island through the four-year life of the program.

4. Rockefeller appointed Frank J. Doherty Jr. of Albany, a legislative correspondent for United Press International, as his assistant press secretary. Doherty, 28, will be paid $14,300 a year.

In drafting the higher-education plan, the governor and leaders are drawing from a series of advisory reports, including a $600-million proposal that would double facilities of the State University by

Key Aides Present For Parley To Hold Comment Off Indefinitely

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy and his new administration's top defense and diplomatic officials today started a far-reaching review of the national security program.

Seeking a safeguarded peace with the Communist bloc, Kennedy began talks with key aides at midmorning and arranged to resume the discussions after a recess for lunch.

Rusk, McNamara There

Sitting in with the President at the conference in the Cabinet room at the White House were Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara.

Also on hand were McGeorge Bundy, Kennedy's personal aide on national security matters; Undersecretary of State-designate Chester Bowles; and Paul H. Nitze, designated as assistant secretary of defense in charge of international affairs, including disarmament planning.

Also present was Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Pierre Salinger, White House press secretary, said several other officials were joining in the discussions. He did not immediately name them.

Nothing to Say Yet

The conference started at 10 a.m. an hour and 15 minutes after Kennedy turned up in his office.

Salinger said the White House would have nothing to say regarding the talks until their conclusion late in the afternoon. He added that there might not be any official comment even then.

A scheduled Kennedy meeting with the entire White House staff was called off. Salinger said without elaboration that other business was prevented.

The president arranged to have lunch in the White House living quarters with Mrs. Kennedy.

Resumption of the national security talks was scheduled for 2:30 p.m.

Shows Importance

The double conference—the only announced business on his agenda today—demonstrated the priority Kennedy attaches to seeking an easing of East-West tension while beefing up the nation's defenses.

A grim reminder of troubles ahead reportedly came in a secret message from Ambassador Llewellyn E. Thompson who met Saturday in Moscow with Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

He's Still Tough

Thompson's cable was understood to report that Khrushchev while talking hopefully of an agreement with the Kennedy administration—in private he had adopted the same tough, uncompromising position on issues that wreaked previous Western hopes.

Kennedy got a preview during a White House luncheon Sunday of Khrushchev's maneuvers. Undersecretary of State-designate Chester Bowles also attended.

Kennedy, moving about in the unpredictable fashion that has become almost routine since inauguration, popped into the press room for a surprise visit.

Religion Seen as Factor in Choice For Cabinet Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. John F. Shelley, D-Calif., missed appointment as secretary of labor because it was considered impractical to have two Roman Catholics in President Kennedy's Cabinet, congressional sources said today.

Shelley himself declined comment on reports published by the San Francisco Chronicle today, that he had been dropped from consideration for the job after Robert F. Kennedy agreed to serve as attorney general in his brother's administration. The Kennedys are Roman Catholics as is Shelley.

Shelley, a member of Congress for 11 years, has served as president of the San Francisco Central Labor Council and California State Federation of Labor.

It was understood Shelley was definitely in line for the secretary's post while it appeared Robert Kennedy would not be named to the Cabinet. However, sources in Congress said, after Robert Kennedy's appointment was settled, the president-elect and Shelley had an amicable meeting at which they agreed it would be politically unwise to include a second Catholic in the new Cabinet.

YMCA Begins 1961 Membership Enrollment Drive

Kingston YMCA membership enrollment campaign for 1961 has many of the board of directors, as well as many activity minded members, striving to get more members to participate in the YMCA program, Robert B. Murray Jr., chairman said today.

National YMCA Week, January 22 to 29, is used throughout the United States for membership enrollment.

The campaign headed by Chairman Murray is divided into four teams with captains as follows: Clifford G. Smith, Joseph Benjamin, Chester A. Baitz Jr., and Clifford Henze. The teams will be making their first enrollment report Tuesday evening at the Y office.

The YMCA offers a varied program of activities. The Y has a large gymnasium for its physical and recreational work and a fine swimming pool, many showers, first class locker room facilities, a steam room connected with the health club, a special exercise room and a weight lifting room. Besides the gym and swimming pool there are recreation facilities with an assortment of games and club rooms for interest groups. There are separate recreation and game rooms in the young men's department. This group also has clubs and tournaments.

Those not contacted by any of the enrollment committee may phone or call at the YMCA on Broadway for information.

No person who has already served two full terms on the school board shall be eligible for endorsement by the Committee, except by unanimous vote of the membership.

Serve for Five Years

Members of the nine-member board of education serve for five years. There is no compensation.

The terms of Robert Herzog, president; and Robert O'Reilly, vice-president, expire next May. Since consolidation January 1, 1959, members of the board are elected. Prior to that time they were appointed by the mayor.

Each person submitting his name to the Committee for consideration as a candidate is required to fill out a qualification sheet, listing his name, address, age, marital status, number of years residing in the school district, occupation, name of employer, and to indicate whether or not he is a taxpayer in the school district and whether he has children. If he has children he is asked to list their names and ages and, if they are of school age, what schools they attend.

He is also asked to list all schools attended and diplomas and degrees received, to list relevant non-vocational or civic activities in which he is currently engaged, and to give two statements—one telling why he is seeking the office and another telling why he believes he is "well qualified to serve in this capacity."

Chambers Speaker

Warren Russell, director of audio-visual education in the Kingston School District (Consolidated) will speak at 7:30 o'clock tonight to parents and teachers of the Chambers School. His subject will be "Television and Education."

Two Teachers Resign From Central School

NEW PALTZ — The resignations of two Central School teachers were accepted at a recent special meeting of the school board. Irving Gold, American History teacher, and Joseph Crescimbeni, sixth grade teacher, will resign as of January 31.

The board approved three-year probationary appointments for the following new teachers:

William Alle Oliver, who is now taking Joseph Altobelli's place, and will replace Mr. Gold; Robert A. Miller, starting Feb. 1, will replace Mr. Altobelli in his classes, and Mrs. Augusta Beinberg, who will replace Mr. Crescimbeni beginning Feb. 1.

The board also discussed the advisability of a citizens committee to aid in planning for future developments and needs of the school.

A six-month probationary appointment was given to two custodians, Vernon Ronk, and Chester Elliott.

A truck driver in the cavalry's Company C, he entered the Army in April 1959 and completed basic combat training at Fort Knox, Ky.

The 24-year-old soldier is a 1955 graduate of Kingston High School.

Redeemer Church Elects Officers

The annual business meeting of the congregation of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, Wurts and Rogers Streets, held recently, re-elected Henry O. Wickman as president and Donald Glass as secretary of the organization.

Reginald B. Deyo was elected treasurer to succeed Harry A. Legge who had served for a number of terms and was recognized for his faithful service by a special resolution and standing ovation.

The meeting which heard reports by the various auxiliaries of the church and by the pastor, the Rev. Dr. David C. Gaise, adopted a budget of $46,000 for 1961. Dr. Gaise announced that the assistant pastor, Ernest W. Helmke, had been granted a leave of absence to complete his graduate work.

Elected to the church council, the governing body of the congregation, were Walter G. Burger, Robert V. Carlson, Robert S. Evoy and Paul H. Zimmerman for terms of three years. These men succeeded Robert Deyo, Donald Griffin, Ralph Skatrud and Elmore Smith, who were not eligible for re-election.

The new officers, church councilmen and the leaders of the auxiliaries of the church will be installed at the main service Sunday, Jan. 29.

Approve $8,805,149 Distribution to Cover for O & W

NEW YORK (AP) — Federal Judge Sylvester J. Ryan today approved distribution by receivers of the defunct New York, Ontario and Western Railway Co. of $8,805,149 to cover claims by the government and creditors.

Thus was climaxed 22 years of litigation involving the bankruptcy, receivership and sale of the Ontario and Western.

James B. Kilsheimer III, and Jacob Grumet, the receivers, turned over to U. S. Atty. S. Hazelard Gillespie Jr., a check for $3,995,013 in settlement of tax claims totaling $7.7 million for the years 1954 to 1957.

The remaining monies will be distributed among the road's creditors, including various municipalities in New York State, Pennsylvania, and New Jersey, and 175 railroads.

Today's final chapter in the long drawn proceedings closed the books on original claims against the road by the government and creditors which exceeded $77 million.

Carrier Saratoga Docks With 7 Dead From Fire at Sea

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — The U.S. aircraft carrier Saratoga put into nearby Phaleron Bay today with seven dead and "many" injured after a fire at sea.

The fire occurred in the eastern Mediterranean, where the big aircraft carrier was on patrol with the U.S. 6th Fleet.

Few details were available immediately.

U.S. navy officers in Naples, Italy, said the fire was believed to have occurred this morning.

Reports received here did not make clear the cause of the fire or where it occurred.

State Warms Up Only Slightly; More New Snow

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Much of New York State warmed up a few degrees today, but the mercury ranged down to 31 below zero.

More of the same was in prospect.

New snow added to troubles in some areas.

It was 31 below at Saranac Lake, one degree below Sunday's early morning reading. But Poughkeepsie, for instance, dropped -15 today, compared with -23 Sunday.

Other overnight lows included: Speculator -20; Boonville and Remsen -18; Massena -17; Albany and Plattsburgh -12; Oneonta and Port Leyden -10; Malone, Cortland and Olean -8; Newburgh -7; Arcade -6; Elmira -4; Rome and Rockland County -2; Binghamton and Rochester -1; Lowville 0; Watertown 2 above; Buffalo 5; Syracuse 6 and New York City 16.

It was the fifth straight day of sub-zero readings across the state. Off-and-on snow plagued areas east of Lakes Erie and Ontario and near the Finger Lakes.

Several schools were closed in rural areas near Watertown, because of blowing snow.

Supreme Court Upholds Movie Censorship Law

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today upheld censorship of motion pictures before their public showing.

Justice Clark delivered the court's 5-4 decision.

The tribunal acted on an appeal by Times Film Corp., distributors of a movie called "Don Juan." The firm refused to submit the picture to Chicago's censors and the city then refused a permit for its exhibition.

In today's high court decision, Chief Justice Warren and Justice Douglas wrote dissenting opinions.

Also dissenting were Justices Black and Brennan.

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — James A. Work, 56, chairman of the Indiana University English department since 1951, died Sunday after a brief illness. He had taught previously at Stanford, Brown, Northwestern and Wayne universities. He was born in Washington, D.C.

It was reported by Ralph LeFevre, chairman of the Welcome Newcomers Committee that many merchants in the area were interested in the program and that the plans for this year would soon be in operation.

A lengthy discussion was held concerning the problem of merchants in the area selling specialized merchandise that should be sold in a specific store. It was agreed that the handling of too great a variety of merchandise was not a good policy, and it was felt that in some cases this forced shoppers to take their business elsewhere.

Walter Luczai, a local merchant, proposed that the Chamber undertake an extensive program of educating the public and informing the local shoppers that in many cases the quality and price is equal to, if not better, than the quality and price which can be obtained in other shopping areas.

Urge Deferment Of Westchester Toll Roads Plan

Members of the Westchester County Board of Supervisors were urged Friday by the Automobile Club of New York to defer any action to transfer its toll parkway system to the new East Hudson Parkway Authority and urged them to back pending legislation in Albany on the parkway problem.

Club president William J. Gottlieb reminded the supervisors that bills already introduced in Albany would repeal the law creating the authority and transfer the Saw Mill River, Hutchinson River and Cross County Parkways to the state's toll-free highway system.

He stressed that the bills provide for payment to the county of an amount sufficient to pay its indebtedness on the parkway system, thereby removing any possible objection of bondholders.

Gottlieb said that passage of the measures would "resolve this problem in a much more satisfactory manner for the motorists and the citizens of your county."

There is no assurance that the new East Hudson Parkway Authority "will be any more successful in financing improvement through tolls than its predecessor, the Westchester County Parkway Authority, since it will have only the same income unless it requests and obtains legislative approval to impose tolls on the toll-free parkways under its jurisdiction," the auto club official reported.

Unless it is repealed, the state law passed last year provides for the East Hudson Authority to take over the two toll roads — Hutchinson River and Saw Mill River Parkways — as well as four presently toll-free facilities. These are the Bear Mountain State, Taconic State and Cross County Parkways and the still-uncompleted Sprain Brook Parkway.

Gottlieb also criticized statements made in behalf of the authority that its toll income will be supplemented by direct appropriations from the state budget beginning in 1963.

"A thorough review of the East Hudson Parkway Authority law and of the report of the Governor's committee on the parkways," he pointed out, definitely does not reveal such a provision.

Unless it is repealed, the state law founded on its present site in 1718 by a French captain named Jean de Bienville, who was born in Canada.

NEW YORK (AP)—Americans with an urge to buy and sell Japanese stocks can soon use a short cut that has speeded up such deals in European shares — American Depository Receipts.

These make trading in foreign securities faster and easier by doing it all right here through a linkup of American and foreign banks handling specific issues. The ADR gained in popularity early last year when European stock markets were booming while the American variety was alternately skidding or idling.

Bought, Sold Here
The ADR is a certificate issued by an American bank on a particular corporate share held by a foreign bank as correspondent. The ADR can be bought and sold here, eliminating the transfer of the securities overseas, and thus giving the buyer prompt ownership without actual physical possession.

The device also sidesteps for an in-and-out trader whatever limitations a foreign land still keeps on transfer of recovered investments after a sale, and eases any remaining difficulties on currency exchange.

In Japan, for example, Americans buying Japanese shares directly can repatriate one-third of their investment and earnings only after holding them two years, a second third after three years, and the remainder after four years.

An ADR will simplify that for trading within this country.

Investment Is Small

Total American investment in Japanese shares has been relatively small, but interest has perked up of late because prices on Japanese stock markets last year increased by about 50 per cent on average. And the advent of the ADR is expected to aid a drive for further American investment in the islands.

But would-be investors should remember that just because an American bank issues an ADR on a foreign stock of whatever origin, there's no guarantee that the stock involved won't go down in price.

Just what happened to many in European markets in the final months of 1960 because the business boom was slowing down in some lands and because some traders feared that U.S. spending abroad would be cut further to defend the strength of the dollar. Such fears have been expressed of late in Tokyo.

The Japanese Finance Ministry has just approved plans for four U.S. banks to issue among them ADRs on shares of 16 big Japanese companies, subject to approval of the U.S. Securities & Exchange Commission. Ten Japanese banks will act as depositaries for the shares.

To Retain Limitations
The New York banks involved are: First National City, Morgan Guaranty, Chemical Bank New York Trust, and Irving Trust. The Japanese companies are in the fields of electronics, metals, oil, shipbuilding, chemicals, machinery, insurance, trading and utilities.

The Japanese will retain the time limitations on repatriating direct investments in the corporations and also their ban on foreigners owning more than 15 per cent of any Japanese company. This may hold down the total of American investment in Japan as compared with other nations without such restrictions.

Some 150 ADRs of foreign corporations are now traded actively in New York. The banks issuing them usually handle collection of dividends and take care of dollar exchange formalities.

Direct trading in foreign securities also has been active in the last 18 months on overseas stock exchanges through American brokerage houses with foreign connections. And shares of a number of prominent foreign corporations, especially Canadian, are listed on stock exchanges in this country.

RESOURCE TO TREASURE

The social scientists have been telling us for a long time that ours is an aging population, that even as our total numbers boom upward the proportion of elderly people among them is rising more sharply.

As has been well and often noted, this trend has many important effects on current and future American life, not the least being its impact on the make-up of the country's work force.

With the gradual coming of age of the persons born in the great baby boom of World War II and its aftermath, the expectation is there will be a veritable flood of job demands.

To hold out the prospect of advancement for these young people entering the labor market, businesses often are compelled to institute automatic retirement plans for older workers, otherwise there would be no room for the rising new generation of employees.

Yet, while this has obvious fairness from the viewpoint of the younger people, it frequently works hardship on the older workers. To the extent that they must thereafter be supported by private or public pension, they are also an increasing burden on the economy and the national treasury.

In many instances there is no escape from this, nor perhaps should there be. But it is tragic that in all too many cases the greatest cost is not in money but in the loss of a man's talent and experience.

All kinds of enterprises—and the country taken as a whole—build vast investments, in the broad sense of that term, in the individuals who comprise the work force. As they advance through life, many become virtual storehouses of skill and knowledge.

To cast them aside, to end their working days automatically and arbitrarily, is to create great waste both economically and spiritually.

For all its growing numbers, this nation is not so heavily endowed for the colossal struggle with communism that it can afford to toss away its investment in trained able people.

We should be trying to do everything imaginable to enlarge not diminish our reservoir of skills and knowledge. We may need every drop in the great pool.

In 1961 we need business and government policies which conserve and enrich the national stockpile of talent. To waste it could be fatal to freedom.

PALADIN'S JUDGMENT

It practically amounts to attempted derailment of the gravy train, but Richard Boone says loud and clear that most television "is a waste of time." These are harsh words to come from Paladin, the man with the lightning draw in "Have Gun, Will Travel," who has fared handsomely in the entertainment medium he discounts.

But Boone says television is going from bad to worse. He thinks that producers believe only commercially oriented shows have any chance of success, and that the generally accepted concept is that "a good show is necessarily unsuccessful."

It seems safe to assume that the TV star,
who predicts that "Have Gun, Will Travel"
will fold after one more season, is fed up with Westerns. He says he wants to move
on to other things, and we don't blame him.
We're fed up with Westerns, too.

DON'T LOOK BEHIND YOU...

Science has caught up with another favorite subject of science-fiction writers—a machine has "built" a machine. Well, the first didn't actually build the second, but it designed it and told humans how to put it together.

Western Electric Co. scientists in Burlington, N.C., first told a general purpose computer, by using a series of equations, what they wanted in the way of a missile tracking computer. They then waited for instructions. The result is the first computer completely designed by another.

These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY
TOUGH DAYS

Every day I get a letter from some person who lives in 1930 or thereabouts and refuses to face the very simple and unpleasant fact of 1961.
Such persons remind me of those brilliant minds in Wall Street in 1929 who, believing that the sky is the limit, committed suicide when the sky fell down on them.

The first problem that President Kennedy and this nation face is the dollar and our loss of gold. This is more important than any other question because as our dollar loses in value, everything we do or try to do goes awry. For instance, the cost of defense rises as the value of the dollar goes down and the cost of keeping troops and bases goes up beyond our capacity to find the funds, particularly if our so-called allies continue to build their gold reserves at our expense. Only the British have recognized the seriousness of this problem and have come through it with devotion and purpose. Italy, West Germany and Japan have been pounding our gold reserve greedily.
It is questionable as to whether what they have done will ultimately redound to their benefit.

The Kennedy Administration faces the dollar as the most urgent problem, although it is understandable that Congress will not consider it so because Americans have had no experience with inadequate currency since the War Between the States and therefore cannot get away from the simplicity that a dollar is 100 cents, 20 nickels or 10 dimes. But even on that formula, what is a nickel worth?

In this respect the Kennedy Administration
starts where the Hoover Administration started.
Hoover took office on March 4, 1929; the stock market collapse occurred in October, 1929. Actually, such a debacle took a long time in the making. The world-wide financial difficulties of that era were first apparent in 1921 and the first country to be hit was Japan. The chain of economic disturbances moved from country to country with dramatic impetus and finally hit the United States. The London Economic Conference was called in 1933 to deal with the question of money and gold to set, if possible, a universal price for gold. Roosevelt and Henry Morgenthau, Jr., torpedoed the Conference and that was the end of economic sanity for Europe.

Today, President Kennedy is faced by a similar situation. He walked in on an inflation, which is sharp and moving rapidly. His Secretary of the Treasury, Douglas Dillon, must stick his finger in the dike to keep our gold from continuing to flow out of the country. He will have to take unpleasant measures to keep our gold reserves sufficient to cover our dollar, to keep the value of our dollar up in the world, and to keep our people at work so that the social and financial problems of unemployment do not complicate the American economy at the beginning of a new Administration.

Many who regard themselves as conservatives do not recognize the seriousness of this particular problem. They keep harping on issues which are not urgent and ignore the frightening possibility that the capitalist system could collapse in this country with the collapse of the dollar. One listens to all sorts of panaceas from devaluation to taking the gold reserve off dollars, but none of the proposed suggestions mean anything of significance. The Treasury must find a solution to the problem of the seeping gold and the debasing dollar within the framework of the American economy without increasing unemployment.

This is no child's game. It takes absolute knowledge and enormous imagination. There are in the United States, men whose business is gold,
who watch every fluctuation in price, in quantity,
in the movement of gold, who can tell instantly
where every pound of gold is situated, who watch every operation in this field.

Douglas Dillon knows where these men are,
who they are, what they do. Because of his experience, he undoubtedly knows the British, Dutch and South African operators as well as the Americans. To my knowledge, at least one of the largest American gold operators and an expert in the field is a friend and neighbor of his in New Jersey.
It is such practical men who ought to be called in to consider a solution of this problem—and immediately.

The Doctor Says ★

The Fast Draw Leaves

Crippled in Its Wake

By HAROLD T. HYMAN, M.D.

Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

In an article in the Western Journal of Surgery, Dr. J. V. Brown has described a series of 16 cases in which gunshot wounds of the leg were caused by what he calls "The Fast Draw Sym-drome."

The origin of Dr. Brown's paper is, of course, the present day Western, shown in the movies or on TV with monotonous regularity.

I'm sure you know the formula for the fast draw. Good guy and bad guy meet in the town's main street. They approach each other as remaining members of the cast run for cover.

Suddenly the bad guy pulls his gun. But the good guy is quicker "on the draw" and "fills him full of lead."

Whereupon, the villain dies without a struggle
only to be replaced after a short delay by another bad guy who pulls his gun only to meet the same fate at the hands of the "faster draw" and so on and on and on as long as the sponsor sells his product.

In the real life cases observed by Dr. Brown,
a "young man in his late teens or early twenties presents a small caliber gunshot wound of the lower extremity, accidentally self-inflicted while practicing the 'fast draw.' Too slow on the draw and too quick with his trigger finger," he fires
the weapon before it is disengaged from the holster and shoots himself in his right foot.

In a more serious modification of the accident, called "The Dodge City Syndrome," and apparently very familiar to Chicago as well as other police officers, a bullet of larger diameter is fired from a 45-caliber gun.

Under these circumstances, the point of entry is apt to be behind the knee in the vicinity of the large vessels that bring blood to and from the foot. The wound is deeper and more gaping and the damage inflicted may produce permanent crippling if not amputated.

Commenting editorially on the situation to which Dr. Brown has so forcibly drawn attention, the Journal of the American Medical Association suggests that those who profit from these gangster and horror shows ought to be made to make their programs more realistic by showing the disfigurement, invalidism, lamism, blinding, coma, headaches, job loss, economic costs and family
miseries that follow these TV sluggings, shootings and related acts of senseless violence.

It seems safe to assume that the TV star,
who predicts that "Have Gun, Will Travel"
will fold after one more season, is fed up
with Westerns. He says he wants to move
on to other things, and we don't blame him.
We're fed up with Westerns, too.

CLOSING IN

A gimmick much used in stories and movies—as well as in real life—may be coming to an end. That is the absence of an extradition treaty between the United States and Brazil since 1913, whereby Brazil became a haven for wanted American criminals.

A proposed treaty covering 33 specific crimes will go into effect as soon as it is ratified by the legislature of both countries.

Washington News

By PETER EDSON
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — The Eisenhower administration has prescribed general treatment to hold prices stable, curb inflation, keep the dollar sound and, above everything else, keep federal government interference with the patient's normal recovery at an absolute minimum.

These are the things the last three Democratic-controlled congresses have refused to agree on. They have wanted more government dosing, nursing and pampering of the patient.

If there had been just a little compromise between the executive and legislative branches of government on this, instead of political bullheadedness on both sides, something might have been done instead of nothing.

THIS IS REALLY THE BIG
POINT for the future that the Kennedy administration might pay more attention to, with the roles of the president and the Congress reversed.

If Kennedy and his economic specialists propose recession cures that the conservatives old family "docs" in Congress can't go along with, the two might accommodate their view so as to help the long-suffering economy instead of leaving it to Father Time, Mother Nature and its own devices for correction.

Saulnier and his colleagues are of the opinion that the present business weakness will be of short duration.

I would expect resumption of growth will occur early in the year," he says. The decline of last November and December he calls a cyclical movement. There is nothing in this situation which ordains further change in a downward direction.

Along with these specifics, the

Eisenhower administration has prescribed general treatment to hold prices stable, curb inflation, keep the dollar sound and, above everything else, keep federal government interference with the patient's normal recovery at an absolute minimum.

Some Kennedy advisers think the remedy is a transfusion of greater government expenditures to make more jobs and put more people back to work.

The approach of the Eisenhower advisers is that such a stimulus would not last. It is considered artificial respiration. The patient may suffer a relapse when it is discontinued, or it could result in price increases and inflation which are considered worse than the original malady.

THIS IS ONLY ONE point on which the two schools of economic medicine seem to be in agreement. Saulnier, in discussing the Eisenhower report, put it this way:

"This bunch," — meaning the Kennedy administration — "would like to see greater use of our productive capacity." He goes along with that. Everybody can go along with that because business conditions, no matter how good, are never good enough.

IF THAT'S THE CASE, it is just as well to know what medicines the Kennedy economists pour down the drain.

Saulnier points out that since 1955 the Eisenhower administration has had before Congress proposals for relief in depressed areas, measures to stimulate the housing industry, aid to education, extended unemployment insurance coverage and similar correctives.

Along with these specifics, the

Seek Distinction Between Toadstool And Mushrooms

A plea to separate the word mushroom from the word toadstool once and for all was issued today by the nation's mushroom growers to Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman of the new Kennedy administration.

Mushrooms found in grocery stores are grown in specially designed hot-houses from selected parent stock chosen for color and taste. They bear absolutely no relation to the hundreds of wild varieties growing in fields and woods, and the wild varieties should henceforth and forever be known as toadstools.

This request was put in the form of a telegram and sent so as to arrive the very first day of Freeman's official service in office.

The Hudson Valley is reputed to be the mushroom capital of the world. Mushroom plants are scattered in the valley as far north as the Albany County line, principally in Coxsackie, Greene County; Malden-on-Hudson and Rosendale in Ulster County.

Signing the telegram was Walter Gmuere, executive director, The American Mushroom Institute, Kennett Square, Pa. He cited the Encyclopedia Americana and other sources as the basis for his request on behalf of an irate industry for relief in the form of improved nomenclature.

The telegram pointed out that mushrooms are a valuable commercial crop grown under rigidly controlled conditions and that public regard for the crop is lowered when wild fungi are referred to as mushrooms. The plea stated that this causes confusion, since many persons are led to believe the mushrooms they see in stores might be picked wild, whereas they are carefully grown, picked and packed like any other agricultural hot-house product.

The Mature Parent

BY MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Child Must Learn Parent Is 'Separate Identity'

Once a pediatrician, he is now a child psychiatrist and the father of Al, aged 5. He recently had a birthday. To celebrate it, his wife made him a particularly handsome cake. When it was placed before him, he made his secret wish, blew out his candles and, after serving his wife and daughter, was preparing to cut Al's slice when Al cried "Wait, daddy, wait!" Clambering down from his chair, Al ran around the table to his father's place and said, "Give me the knife, daddy, I want to cut my slice myself."

Said his father, "No, you can't have the knife. This is my birthday and this is my cake. I am the person who cuts it."

Outraged by this declaration of separate identity, Al retired to the living room where he hid under a table. He was permitted to stay there. Nobody followed him to beg him to return. Nobody said, "All right, you can cut daddy's cake." So, just before bedtime, he emerged from under the table to accept the cake slice his father cut for him—and the idea that he and his father were not the same person.

Many modern children see no difference between their parents and them. Because we are either sentimental or frightened of their displeasure, they are permitted to cut our birthday cakes when they are young. So, as they grow they never learn to see us as separate identities with separate rights, wishes and possessions.

As a result, we can never count on finding our white gloves in the drawer where we put them. We can never be sure that our umbrella will be available when we need it.

What's worse, we are so used to our young people's regarding us and everything we've got as part of themselves that we do not even question their failure to ask permission to use our possessions.

This is not funny, though TV's family comedy writers try to tell you it is. In this country children's adolescence involves genuine suffering for many parents. We suffer horribly when Betty and Ronny say, "No, this is my life and I'll cut it the way I want to." We fiercely resent their declarations of separateness from us. If we'd ever been able to stand up for our own, our resentment would be less.

But how many of us can say, "No, this is my cake" to cuddle some little boys and girls?

Announcing a New Engineering Professional Group at ---

REMINGTON RAND UNIVAC

PROFESSIONAL OPPORTUNITIES IN UNIVAC PRODUCT ENGINEERING AT UTICA, NEW YORK, TO BE FILLED IMMEDIATELY!

ELECTRICAL ENGINEERS FOR . . .

- Managing engineering programs involving machine improvement, cost reduction and the development of special features for solid state digital computer systems.
- Logic design of special digital computer features.
- Component analysis for high machine reliability.
- Circuit analysis and design.
- Magnetic head design for drum and large scale file units.
- Design of special input-output equipment.

MECHANICAL ENGINEERS FOR . . .

- Development of High Reliability—Optimum cost electronic packaging concepts and techniques.
- Major design programs for magnetic tape transports and high speed printers.
- Designing special paper tape and 80 and 90 column punched card equipment.

DESIGN PROGRAMMERS with strong digital computer logic backgrounds to prepare test programs and diagnostic routines.

ABOUT SALARIES AND POSITIONS . . .

We are certain that engineers with the qualifications we are seeking will be satisfied with the salaries and positions we offer. Your individual accomplishments at Univac will be personally recognized. There is equal opportunity for advancement as an individual contributor or as a manager. You will be given the maximum responsibility you are capable of handling.

For your information . . . Area Code 315
Swift 7-0343

In Utica is our permanent professional placement telephone.

PLEASE CALL COLLECT ANY TIME INCLUDING SUNDAYS FOR FURTHER INFORMATION OR TO ARRANGE A PERSONAL INTERVIEW.

Interviews will be arranged for your convenience in Poughkeepsie, Utica, or New York City. If you prefer, send resume of your education and experience. All contacts will be held strictly confidential.

Remington Rand Univac recently announced the formation of a new and separate product engineering organization. Product Engineering as a part of the Engineering Department is destined to become one of Univac's major professional groups. The first Product Engineering laboratory is now being established in Utica, New York, where it will support the Utica and Iliion manufacturing plants. During 1961 its engineering responsibilities will include Univac Solid State Computers . . . Magnetic Tape Systems . . . High Speed Printers . . . Punched Card and Paper Tape Input-Output Equipment . . . and one of the most advanced, new general purpose digital computers, the Univac III.

Our goal is the formation of an engineering staff which will equal the excellent professional competence of Univac Development Engineering.

Interview arrangement will be made for you by

R. T. BLAKELY,
Manager of Product Engineering

or
R. N. SWEETLAND,
Manager, Data Processing Systems,

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market pushed higher in heavy trading early this afternoon.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 1.00 at 230.90 with industrials up 1.70, rails up .80 and utilities up .10. Gains of fractions to a point or more outnumbered losers among key stocks.

The Commerce Department report that consumer spending had risen to a record level was encouraging. Hope for a business upturn this year continued.

The market was narrowly mixed at the start, then improved gradually, gaining some momentum as trading wore on.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up .48 at 639.25. Corporate bonds were mixed. U.S. governments were higher.

Do You Remember by Sophie Miller

With such changes in retail stores coming and going in Kingston someone asked me about L. B. VanWagonen the other day. According to H. L. Van Deusen, who used to write "At Century's Turn" L. B. Van Wagonen was established on the Strand in 1874. At that time, the late John R. Stebbins, L. B. Van Wagonen, and August W. Brodhead were connected with the famous store. In January 1909, it was officially announced that the L. B. VanWagonen Co. planned to discontinue its large store on East Strand and just run the store on Wall Street.

It is interesting to see according to my own records that F. W. Woolworth Co. of New York took a store Sept. 1, 1894 at 11 Wall Street, formerly occupied by the late Robert Tootil, tailor. An addition of some 45 feet in length was added to the rear making a total of 105 feet. Campbell and Dempsey did the mason work. It was noted at the time, that they made a specialty of 5 and 10 cent goods.

The Winter family introduced the telegraph to Kingston. Edward Winter died Sept. 14, 1910, at age 75. He opened a stationery store on North Front Street and ran the Western Union office from his store for many years. I have the date April 1, 1890, that the Ulster County Telephone Exchange was operated by Winter Bros. William Winter was proprietor of the bookstore in Rondout and Edward Winter ran the uptown store. The instruments belonged to the National Bell Co. I understand the Winter Bros. built and operated the Bell Telephone System, and then sold it to the former Hudson River Telephone Co.

The telephone and telegraph offices of Kingston would make an interesting subject for a local student. In 1896, for instance, according to the Kingston Directory the Citizens Standard Telephone Co. is listed at 51 John Street. The Hudson River Telephone Co. at 52 John Street and 22 Broadway. There is also a West Shore Telephone Co. at 51 John Street. The Western Union Telegraph offices are listed at 24 Ferry Street, 306 Wall Street and Railroad Avenue.

At one time, it is said, the only telephone line in the city, was the one connecting Winter's Store on Wall Street with Winter's Store on East Strand. I remember, the late Jacob Bernstein told me, that his sister, Laura (or Flora) Bernstein was the first girl telephone operator in Kingston.

Looking through this 1896 Kingston Directory I see under Laundry, Hood and Webster were at 301 Fair Street; Chin Sing was at 5 Main Street; Wah Sing was at 61 Broadway; The Troy Steam Laundry, of which William Weston was the owner was at 83-8, Broadway.

Nowadays one sees many gas stations. In 1896 livery and boarding stables were popular and there were some 16 in Kingston, of which seven were downtown. Patrick J. Conroy was at 30 Ann Street; Elmer Fuller at 50 Hasbrouck Avenue; Peter Hamilton at Ann Street; Julius Metzger at 10-14 Ann Street; Mrs. M. E. Murphy at Ann and Mill Streets; E. N. Parish at 81 Broadway, and Grove Webster at 27 Mill Street.

I see out of the 15 milliners listed some eight of them were in Rondout, as that was the shopping center then for fashion. Only four were on Wall Street. In those days, hats were fussy and feathers, yet there were only two hair dressers listed.

Milk Producers Greet Freeman With Hike Demand

SYRACUSE — Eastern Milk Producers Cooperative took what it termed "positive action" in behalf of farmers today by greeting the new secretary of agriculture with a demand for higher milk prices.

Eastern laid a formal petition for an immediate federal milk hearing on the desk of Secretary Orville Freeman on the new administration's first day in office.

The petition asks immediate consideration of raising the Class III or manufacturing milk price to at least the level of the Boston manufacturing price.

At this time, the Class III contribution toward the price received by New York farmers is running 30 cents per hundred-weight less than the Boston price and 40 cents below the Midwestern condensery price, an accepted price barometer in the milk industry.

"There has been a great deal of talk lately about committees, long-range studies, order revisions and many similar maneuvers but the blunt truth is that dairy farmers are in a serious situation and we need action and need it now," declared John C. York, executive secretary of Eastern Milk Producers.

"There is clear justification for calling an immediate hearing on the manufacturing milk price. We hope our new secretary, Mr. Freeman, will see fit to give our farmers a hearing in the interest of immediate price relief."

The current New York Class III or manufacturing milk price is $3.04 per hundredweight. The blended price is $4.66, compared with $4.80 for the comparable month a year ago.

Advertise Bids
For New Heating
System at Hall

The Woodstock town board has authorized the advertising of sealed bids for installation of a new heating system for town hall to cost in excess of $4,000.

Supervisor Moynaeux was authorized to seek bids by unanimous vote of the board at a special meeting on Jan. 17.

According to the notices to bidders, the new heating setup would include installation of a one-stage heating system for the town clerk's office and the building of a new heating room adjacent to the town clerk's office for the housing of the system, the remodeling of the heating system in the town hall consisting of a three-zone system for the fire engine room, the firemen's meeting room and the town. Previously all heating was controlled from the one stage.

Bids will be opened at 9 a. m. in the office of the town clerk on January 27.

In seeking board approval for the new system, the supervisor said the present system is 22 years old. The Amos Post company had inspected it several months ago and estimated it would cost approximately $2,100 to repair and renovate it, but with only the one stage control. The Post company, the supervisor said, had the analysis on their own. Supervisor Moynaeux was named town board delegate to the New York State Association of Towns at the Statler-Hilton in Buffalo on Feb. 6-7-8.

Turnaus Players
Slate Florida
Opera Schedule

The Turnau Opera Players of Woodstock and Florida have scheduled 16 performances of opera in English from Feb. 18 through March 15, at the original 18th Century Italian Asolo Theater of the Ringling Museum of Art in Sarasota.

Rossini's "La Cenerentola" will open the Turnaus' second season at the State of Florida's Ringling Museum. This opera has been in the repertory of the company during their six summer seasons in Woodstock. It was performed with the Kentucky Opera Association and the Louisville Symphony in December to close an extended tour of the Midwest under the management of the National Music League.

Other operas to be presented will be "The Marriage of Figaro" and "Così Fan Tutte" by Mozart, and two Baroque operas, "Dido and Aeneas" by Purcell and "Il Combattimento" by Monteverdi; the last two as a double bill will be accompanied by a string quartet and a harpsichord.

Returning to the Asolo stage will be such favorite performers as Alan Baker, Carolyn Chrismann, Ray De Voll, Lucille Sullam and Nancy Williams.

Karlos Moser, general director and conductor of the Kentucky Opera Association while Moritz Bornhard is on leave of absence at the Hamburg Opera House will again be the musical director of the company and Barbara Owens, one of the founders of the Turnau Opera Players, will handle stage direction.

Siruge Elected
To Art League's Control Board

Salvatore Siruge, local artist who resides on the Sawkill-Zena road, is one of six new members of the 12-man Board of Control of the Art Students League of New York and Woodstock.

The others are: Richard A. M. Bettio, Ivy A. Clifford, Theodore Davis, William J. Dubin Jr. and Salvatore Grippi. They were named at the annual meeting of the League at the New York City Center.

Arthur J. Foster, president of the Art Students' League for three years, was returned to office without opposition. Mrs. Edith Jay was re-elected women's vice president. George Hicks, familiar to an enormous TV audience as the announcer for the U. S. Steel Hour, will be the men's vice president, replacing Francis J. Barber.

Annette Fish, Elsie McManus and Sheila Malone were elected to the board.

Siruge, one of the Woodstock area's rising artists, studied with Vytaclil, Kanter, Philip Guston and Arnold Blanch. In 1951, he won an Emily Lowe Award and in 1952 Woodstock Foundation Award. He has had one-man shows at the Camino Gallery, the Howard Wise Gallery, Cleveland, and at seven universities. His paintings have been circulated by the Lending Service of the Museum of Modern Art. The University of Southern Illinois owns one of his paintings. In the summer months he moves to Woodstock with his wife. He has built himself a house with an Aprobolic Paraboloid roof—what Edward Lear might have called a runcible roof. The house is located on the Zena-Sawkill road.

American Leadership Seen As Youngest Major Power

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy, a student of both history and the presidency, is credited with having written a classic in his inaugural address.

But his real achievement perhaps was that while he managed to convey a feeling of newness and a new approach to peace, his words demonstrated his own sense of continuity with men who preceded him.

Lest the rest of the world get the notion America is fat and tired, he said, "The torch has been passed to a new generation of Americans."

Many Leaders Aging

And indeed it has, to such a degree that American leadership now is the youngest of any major power. The leaders of Russia, Red China, Britain, France and West Germany are old or aging.

But his use of the word "generation" has a special meaning for those Americans who were alive and listening when President Franklin D. Roosevelt in the crisis of the depression said his generation had a "rendezvous with destiny."

Kennedy made no such hopeful promise for his generation. He said in the presidential campaign he did not know what the 1960s would bring "except hard times in the international sphere."

Because this is probably a conviction with him, it explains why he said in his inaugural that the work ahead will not be finished "in the life of this administration, nor even perhaps in our lifetime on this planet."

Gosh, if Uncle had these new-fangled notions about depressed areas a hundred years ago, we would have kept building whaling ships to furnish jobs; we would have kept New Englanders on their now abandoned hill farms; silver miners at ghost town Cripple Creek; and oil drillers at Titusville. The fur trade would be staggering along, and Welsbach burner makers would be building warehouses to put them in.

The taxes collected to keep these dying businesses from closing out would have clapped a heavy yoke on the birth and growth of new and better ways to make a living. Under such a burden, would we have electricity in place of gaslights; and the automobile and highway in place of the ox-cart and mud road?

One reason for the unprecedented growth of our country is that, until our generation, taxes and Government restrictions have been a light brake on the growth of new and better ways to live.

Kennedy Gives Views

His words were almost identical with a man of a generation between him and Roosevelt — Defense Secretary James V. Forrestal—who, looking ahead in 1948, said: "Not in our lifetime, or in that of the next generation do I foresee the time when a strong military potential will not be needed to back up our diplomacy."

Kennedy did not get that blunt in the inaugural speech.

But his views — like those of Presidents Truman and Eisenhower before him—are the same as Forrestal's as he showed during the presidential campaign when he said: "Peace requires an American defense posture strong enough to convince any potential aggressor that war would be a mistake. This means we must have a military force second to none."

Perhaps the most memorable phrase Kennedy has uttered since accepting the Democratic presidential nomination last summer was his vision of the "New Frontier" facing America.

Here again he had a direct link with the past. He was not the first president to think in terms of American frontiers.

Just as Kennedy dwelt on the need for peace, so did Eisenhower in his second inaugural address in 1957 when he talked of building a "peace with justice in a world where moral law prevails."

Kennedy last Friday, calling on the Communist world to cooperate in the search for peace, suggested creating "not a new balance of power but a new world of law."

Milan Dairy Farmers Clash With Riot Police

MILAN, Italy (AP) — Two thousand dairy farmers clashed with riot police in downtown Milan today in a new outbreak of a battle against foreign beef and butter. Six farmers were arrested.

The farmers massed in front of the Palazzo Serbelloni where Foreign Trade Minister Mario Martiniello was conferring with city authorities.

The farmers attacked police when they were told they could not see the minister to present their protests that imports of foreign beef and butter were undermining prices for local products.

Think It Through

By E. H. HUTTON
DEPRESSED AREAS

How happy we should be that our ancestors didn't have Federal subsidies, price supports and Government Aid to keep things going that should have died! If they had had these political crutches, all our warehouses would be filled with unsold ox yokes, whiffle trees, hoop skirts and bustles, and we wouldn't have any room now for Uncle to store wheat, cotton, eggs, butter, corn, cheese and all the other billions of dollars' worth of stuff that he is storing today.

Gosh, if Uncle had these new-fangled notions about depressed areas a hundred years ago, we would have kept building whaling ships to furnish jobs; we would have kept New Englanders on their now abandoned hill farms; silver miners at ghost town Cripple Creek; and oil drillers at Titusville. The fur trade would be staggering along, and Welsbach burner makers would be building warehouses to put them in.

TELEPHONE POINTS THE WAY

Almost two million American Telephone and Telegraph stockholders got a thrill the other day. Their shares advanced $6 each in a few hours after the company announced plans for increased dividends and other financial benefits.

More than $1,300,000,000 was added to the market value of the outstanding shares. No wonder such news grew beyond cheer to the ATT owners. One stockholder bought himself a new $6,600 automobile the very next day. Another has taken his family on an unexpected holiday. Still a third has begun house-improvement plans.

Psychology plays an important role in national prosperity. A single event like this can change the spending ideas of millions of people. Fearful people may hoard their money and prosperity stagnates. Confident people may employ their money and prosperity ensues.

Consumer spending is one of the key bases of national well-being. And telephone service reflects public confidence in consumer spending in a significant degree.

No enterprise in recent years has been better managed than American Telephone and Telegraph. The company with its subsidiaries controls 85 per cent of America's telephones. They total around 60,000,000.

Gross revenues of this vast system grew from $5,252,000,000 in 1955 to $7,351,000,000 in 1959. By 1965 they should be through 10 billions a year.

The sound growth of the telephone business is predicated upon the careful study of consumer income and consumer spending. And this can be a guide to sound investing. Just as the big Bell system can chart its future growth and activities by studying the numerous economic factors that establish consumer spending so can an investor put money to work in the common stocks of corporations catering to public demand.

Sears Roebuck, Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea, J. C. Penny, Montgomery Ward and R. H. Macy are five of a hundred merchandising corporations that a could be named as future prosperity enterprises whose welfare have something in common with ATT.

Food enterprises will show good growth. In 1961, there are about 180,000,000 people to feed in America. In ten years this number will be 200,000,000 or more.

The electricity and gas corporations will grow slowly and steadily. The investment portfolio of any conservative person should have such shares.

The banking business will grow in the same way. Money forms the base of one of the fundamental industries of our country.

Here again, every sound list of stocks should carry bank shares.

A well-managed bank or trust company is a solid institution in which to become a stockholder.

Thus, the giant American Telephone and Telegraph Corporation points the way to successful investment in many industries where consumer spending is large. Such industries in our country, catering to the economic demands and wants of a growing population, will weather any social, political and military storm that may blow up in the world.

SUBWAY FOR SAN FRANCISCO — A subway planned for San Francisco is depicted in this combination photograph-drawing. The five-county Bay Area Rapid Transit District is developing the system which will be tied in with existing transit network. High-speed trains will use the subway's lower level while streetcars now operating on the surface will utilize central level. Upper level will be used for continuous pedestrian mezzanine where stations, escalators and entrances to downtown shops will be located. Similar subways are planned for nearby Oakland and Berkeley.

171 Fewer Firms Listed for Area In Last 3 Years

Ulster County now has 171 less commercial enterprises than it had three years ago, the January 1961 total being 2,067. The Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce released these figures today as provided through the annual January business listing report by Dun and Bradstreet, Inc.

From 1951 to 1958 the number increased from 2,018 to a peak of 2,238 in 1958. The reduction indicates that people travel longer distances to transmit business and the business units are larger.

Kingston and the immediate area have 975 listings on 42 per cent of the total. Ellenville and Saugerties are next each having slightly less than 200 listings. Highland and New Paltz rank fourth and fifth each with approximately 160 business listings. Woodstock is sixth with over 60 listings.

Kingston and the immediate area have 975 listings on 42 per cent of the total. Ellenville and Saugerties are next each having slightly less than 200 listings. Highland and New Paltz rank fourth and fifth each with approximately 160 business listings. Woodstock is sixth with over 60 listings.

Society to Plan 1961 County Fair

The annual meeting of the Ulster County Agricultural Society, sponsor of the annual County Fair, will take place at 74 John Street here tonight. Plans for the 1961 fair on August 16 and 17 will be discussed.

In making this announcement today, C. Chester DuMond Jr. of Ulster Park, stated the meeting would start at 8 p. m. and the officers for 1961 will also be elected.

This year the terms of Harry J. Beatty, Gordon Boice, Philip Davis, and Hugh Simpson expire. Six directors will be elected for a term of three years to fill the expiring terms.

The officers for 1960 were Mr. DuMond, president; Harry J. Beatty, and George Mollenhauer, vice presidents; Pratt Boice, treasurer and Albert Kurdt, secretary.

Sears Roebuck, Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea, J. C. Penny, Montgomery Ward and R. H. Macy are five of a hundred merchandising corporations that a could be named as future prosperity enterprises whose welfare have something in common with ATT.

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — After that busy, busy inaugural Friday, television gave us the remainder of the weekend to rest and to relax.

Nothing particularly demanding turned up on the entertainment front. The finals of Bing Crosby's golf tourney Sunday provided some tense moments, especially when one beautiful long putt literally hung on the lip of the cup.

Despite the wind at 30-miles an hour, and likely the blowing at the screen by a large part of the living room TV audience, it stubbornly refused to drop.

Leonard Bernstein, as usual, lectured too much and permitted the Philharmonic Orchestra to play too little on the Sunday CBS musical show.

Sid Caesar turned actor in a very heavy-handed piece of fantasy on GE Theater—he played Lucifer, and not very convincingly.

The Ed Sullivan Show had a trapeze artist, Edgar Bergen, a reading by Sam Levene, and Sullivan read the entire list of performers at the Washington benefit staged by Frank Sinatra—for reasons that remain pretty obscure.

All in all, it was an average Sunday night.

Nowadays, Sunday is getting to be a night when it's easy to turn in early and get a good night's sleep.

Possibly the most interesting event of the weekend was the Friday night premiere of the little CBS disaster called, "You're in the Picture." This is the show that brings Jackie Gleason back to weekly television. He's the host on the new panel show.

One would presume that CBS, which presents "What's My Line?", "To Tell the Truth," and "I've Got a Secret," would understand the basic elements that go into a successful and entertaining program of this type.

Most panel shows are carefully designed to permit witty or funny exchanges among the panel members while they are engaged in a guessing game of some sort. The device in this new entry is a series of king-sized cartoons depicting various scenes. The four panel members are placed behind the cartoon and at a signal each sticks his head through a hole. To the audience, it looks like one of these old-fashioned gag photos taken on some boardwalk.

Then, in obviously uncomfortable positions, the four panel members are supposed to find out what the cartoon is about. They ask questions and Gleason, the moderator, answers them. Jackie is the one who obviously is to make all the jokes. At any rate, on Friday night, he wouldn't let anybody else make funnies. The sad part was that Jackie wasn't funny either.

Suicide Is Their Choice, Says Note Near 2 Students

RICHMOND, Mich. (AP) — "It was our choice and we did it together," wrote Louise Mabley, 15, who was found shot to death Saturday alongside the body of her sweetheart.

State police said the blonde cheerleader and basketball star James C. Erhart, 16, apparently died together rather than live apart.

Their bodies were found sprawled across a bed in Linda's bedroom.

Each had been shot in the chest with a .32-caliber pistol belonging to Linda's father, a prominent Richmond attorney, police said.

Detective Laurence N. Hoffman said the two Richmond High School students had been going steady for two years. The boy was to go to Amsterdam in June as an exchange student under a State Department program.

Liz, Philip Start Tiger Hunt Today

JAIPUR, India (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II and her husband Prince Philip were to go 12 miles into the jungle today on a tiger hunt that has some animal lovers of Europe and Asia up in arms.

The royal couple are spending two days at the hunting lodge of the Maharaja of Jaipur without the usual entourage of newsmen and curious public. The maharaja declared the hunt area off limits to give the queen privacy and to avoid frightening away the tigers.

Several animal welfare groups in India and Britain strenuously objected to the queen participating in the hunt. Nine thousand New Delhi students threatened a hunger strike if the queen "encourages" tiger hunting.

Republican Women
Plan Lincoln Day
Dinner, Feb. 18

Mrs. Raymond LeFever, president, headed the officers who were installed for the coming year at a meeting of the Ulster County Women's Republican Club, Thursday, Jan. 19 at the Governor Clinton Hotel. Jesse McHugh, vice chairman of the Ulster County Republican Committee, conducted the brief installation ceremony, which began Mrs. Le Fever's second term as president of the Club.

Other officers installed at the first meeting of the year were: Mrs. Frank Compochiaro, secretary; Mrs. Fred Stang, treasurer; Miss Alice Scarfield, corresponding secretary and Miss Marianne Davis, third vice president and publicity chairman. Not present at the meeting were two other officers, Mrs. Walter Caunitz, first vice president; and Mrs. John Schomer, second vice president.

Guest speakers at the meeting were Mr. McHugh, Judge John Sterely, chairman of the Kings Republican Committee, and Bernhard Kramer, newly appointed district representative for Congressman Ernest Wharton.

The speakers praised the work of the club for the past year under the able leadership of Mrs. Le Fever and urged the members to continue their efforts in the community.

A gala Lincoln Day dinner is planned for Saturday evening, Feb. 18, at the Governor Clinton Hotel. Co-chairman for this event will be Mrs. Frederick Stang and Mrs. Walter Caunitz. Mrs. William Krum, program chairman, will announce the speaker and further plans for the dinner in the near future.

Mrs. LeFever will be the delegate of the Club at the conference of the Women's National Republican Club to be held at the Plaza Hotel, New York, January 26 and 28. Senator Barry Goldwater will be the luncheon speaker at the meeting Saturday, Jan. 28. Members of the club who are interested in attending the sessions may contact Mrs. Le Fever for further information.

The stormy weather prevented the appearance of Miss Wilma C. Sivertsen, noted Republican leader of New York City, who sent a telegram extending her best wishes to the Club for the coming year. Mr. McHugh also expressed the regrets of Assemblyman Kenneth Wilson who was unable to attend the meeting because of conflicting engagements.

The next meeting of the Club will be held Thursday, Feb. 16, at the Governor Clinton Hotel. Exchange students from Japan and Italy attending Kingston High School will be featured on the program.

B'nai B'rith Women Enjoy Coffee Hour Here;
Announce Regional Conference Set for March

On Thursday evening, Jan. 19, the executive board of the Kingston chapter of B'nai B'rith Women met at the home of Mrs. Edwin Kalish. Mrs. Charles Ronder, vice president, presided.

It was reported that a coffee hour for prospective members was held January 12 at the home of Mrs. Leonard Bard. Mrs. Bard and Mrs. Stanley Kohnberg were in charge of this event.

A note of thanks was received from the Welfare Department concerning the donation of toys given for the foster child program.

Future events were discussed. On February 14 some of the members will visit the Veterans' Hospital at Castle Point.

The following evening, February 15, a game night will be scheduled. Mrs. Morton Cohen and Mrs. Stuart Messenger are in charge of this program. There has also been some preliminary planning for a fashion show early in the spring. All these future programs will be discussed at the next general meeting.

On March 18 and 19, the Hudson Valley Regional Conference of B'nai B'rith will hold a weekend convention at Singer's in Spring Valley. One of the highlights of the weekend will be professionally led seminars on the Anti-Defamation League and B'nai B'rith Youth Activities.

Those in attendance at the meeting were the Mmes. Irving Aleon, Leonard Bard, Morton Cohen, Harry Flamm, Max Goldberg, Edwin Kalish, Stanley Kohnberg, Morton Levine, Arnold Pinsky, Stanley Plasker, Charles Ronder, Robert Ronder, Seymour Semiloff, Merrill Stone, Seymour Werbalowsky, Ronald Wolford and Miss Blanche Kirschenblum.

The next general meeting scheduled for this Wednesday will feature a panel discussion on the Eichmann trial. All members are urged to attend the meeting which will be held at the Jewish Community Center.

New Members Greeted

On Thursday, Jan. 12, a coffee hour was held at the home of Mrs. Leonard Bard in order to introduce new members of the community to local B'nai B'rith Women.

Attending were the Mmes.

Boston Opera Will Sing 'La Boheme'
Here in English

Members of the Kingston Community Concert Association will have an evening of opera next Monday night, Jan. 30, at Community Theatre, Broadway, as the Boston Opera Group is presented in Puccini's famous "La Boheme." Artistic director for the group is Sarah Caldwell, known in Boston as "the incredible Miss Caldwell," a young energetic producer director.

Since the inception of the Boston Opera Group in 1957, Sarah Caldwell has turned out an astonishing array of operatic hits characterized by musicianship, taste and imagination. The work being given in Kingston placed the Boston Opera Group among the nation's top-ranking operatic organizations.

After attending the famed Berkshire Music Festival at Tanglewood for one year as a scholarship student in the opera division, Sarah Caldwell served on the faculty of that organization for seven years under the late Serge Koussevitzky. It was here that she produced such difficult and challenging works as Richard Strauss' "Ariadne Auf Naxos," and the British composer Benjamin Britten's "Albert Herring."

While at Tanglewood Miss Caldwell became a firm advocate of the "opera-in-English school," and used her talents in the translation of more than two dozen operatic pieces, many of which have subsequently been published.

As chairman of the department of opera and music theatre at Boston University, Sarah Caldwell has built one of the outstanding opera schools in the country. Unique performances include the American premiere of "Mathis Der Mahler" of Paul Hindemith; the first American performance of Stravinsky's "The Rake's Progress," the first American "Carmen" in its original version. In 1958 she unearthed two "finds" in the Boston Public Library. These were a rare manuscript of the original libretto of Offenbach's "Voyage to the Moon," and a book containing costume plates in color and scenic sketches of the original production of 1875. The result of this was the American premiere of "Voyage" at the Boston Arts Festival in June 1958 by the newly formed Boston Opera Group.

Singing the lead role of Mimi for the Kingston production next Monday night will be internationally famous Canadian soprano, Lois Marshall. The company will include chorus and orchestra.

No single admissions are sold to the performances of the Kingston Concert Association series. Inquiries concerning membership in the Kingston group may be phoned to Mrs. Bernard Forst or Mrs. Lloyd LeFever, co-chairmen.

WHO BUYS
THE FURNITURE?

Question: Several friends and I were discussing the question of who buys the furniture for the bride and groom's future house. I have always thought, and still do, that the buying of the furniture is an obligation of the bridegroom. The others in the group said that this is no longer true and that it is just as much the bride's obligation as the groom's. Will you please set us straight on this matter?

Answer: If, as is so often the case today, the bride earns a salary comparable to that of the groom, or if she is independently rich, she usually contributes her share toward buying the furniture for their future house. A generation ago it was different, and in the majority of cases the groom alone was the breadwinner and the bride was neither able, nor expected, to help in buying their furniture.

Lutz-Ferraro Wedding Is Announced Here;
Bride Chooses White Bouquet Mist Taffeta

MRS. JOHN C. FERRARO
(Pennington photo)

Miss Irene Carol Lutz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Lutz of Bowen Street, Port Ewen, wed John Charles Ferraro, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Ferraro of Glasco, Saturday, Jan. 14 before a nuptial Mass at Presentation Church, Port Ewen.

Officiating was the Rev. James Lover, CSSR, of Mt. St. Alphonsus, Esopus. Mrs. Robert J. Corcoran was organist and Miss Eileen Reis, soloist, sang "Ave Maria," "Panis Angelicus," "Mother at Thy Feet Is Kneeling," "On This Day O Beautiful Mother," and "Mother Beloved." It was a double ring ceremony.

The main altar was decorated with white gladioli, snapdragons and mums in gold vases. Matching arrangements were on the side altars and the pews were marked with white satin bows.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a long sleeved princess gown of white bouquet mist taffeta styled with a full length chapel train and bustle bow with streamers. The petal shaped neckline and plastron front were appliqued in re-embroidered lace with minute accents of seed pearls and iridescent sequins. Lace medallions were appliqued at random on the front and sides of the skirt. A scalloped fingertip veil of French silk illusion was held in place by a crown of tiny seed pearls in heart-shaped outline. The bride

Defense Talk Heard At YW, World Dinner At Bethany Feb. 16

A talk on national defense and discussion of plans for the annual "Round the World Dinner" made up the program for the January 18 meeting of the Business and Professional Club at the YWCA.

The speaker on "National Defense" was Mrs. W. Dale Swartzmiller, who talked of the relation between the United Nations and the overall defense position of the United States.

Mrs. Swartzmiller brought out many points about which many were unaware, proving that she had given much thought and a great deal of study to the subject.

She presented a wealth of documented information during her talk and at a question and answer period that followed.

Mrs. Adam Porter, who had introduced Mrs. Swartzmiller, thanked her for her informative talk.

The "Round the World Dinner" an annual event will be held Thursday, Feb. 16.

Mrs. Jeanne Snyder, president of the Business and Professional Club, announced that it will take place at Bethany Hall of the Old Dutch Church, featuring dishes from many countries of the world. There will be several servings, she said, in the hall which offers adequate facilities for preparing and serving.

Mrs. Snyder said the next meeting on January 25 will have an informative program on "Heraldry" discussed by Mrs. Porter.

Ike Planes to Georgia

YORK, Pa. (AP)—Ex-President Dwight D. Eisenhower's plane took off in a snowstorm today carrying him to Georgia for some warmer weather, he hopes, and a bird hunting.

Eisenhower made the 20-mile drive from his Gettysburg, Pa., farm in a station wagon over snow-covered roads.

The plane—privately owned by Eisenhower's Georgia host—took off for Albany, Ga., from a runway that had been cleared of snow.

Hatcheries Do Better

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—New York hatcheries exported nearly 1½ million hatching eggs and baby chicks, turkeys and other birds in 1960, a 37 per cent increase from 1959.

The State Agriculture Department, which reported the statistics Sunday, said the shipments went to 28 nations.

More than 125 guests were received at a reception given in the Flamingo.

The bride was graduated from Academy of St. Ursula and the Benedictine Hospital School of Nursing. She is now on the staff at the Benedictine. Her husband, an alumnus of Saugerties High School, is employed by IBM in Kingston.

When Mr. and Mrs. Ferraro return from Bermuda, they will be at home at Lincoln Apartment, Saugerties.

Suslov Calls Again For World Harmony

MOSCOW (AP) — Mikhail Suslov, one of the Soviet Communist party's top theoreticians, has called again for adoption of Premier Khrushchev's plan for universal disarmament to "abolish the very possibility of waging wars."

The Soviet news agency Tass gave no indication that Suslov, in his speech to the party's Central Committee Jan. 18, proposed any system of checks or inspections such as the West demands.

"The time has come," Suslov said, "when it is possible to curb the attempts of imperialist aggressors to touch off a world war, when it is possible to avert it."

Suslov reported to the Central Committee on last November's summit meeting in Moscow of world Communist leaders. He reiterated the position taken at that conference by Khrushchev—that war is not inevitable.

BRIDGEJacoby Explains Two-Bid Openers

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The Jacoby two bid is used in the Jacoby-Smith system to cover the very strong hands. It combines the advantages of the old-fashioned Culbertson two bid with those of the modern forcing two clubs without the disadvantages of either.

Specifically, our two diamond, heart and spade openings are game forces and in addition to showing the bid suit also indicate that we are either void or singleton in some other suit.

The best response to two spade, heart or diamond bid is two no-trump, but we don't have to worry about getting the no-trump into the wrong hand. Since the opener's hand is unbalanced he is delighted to let his partner play no-trump if that is the proper final contract.

North has no problem about letting South play three no-trump. Once South has shown some sort of spade suit, North can count on nine tricks at no-trump.

Jones Sweeps in HVBL, Eleven Main Wins Pair

Continuing their easy march towards the league title, Jones Dairy keglers swept three games from the Tropical Inn in a Hudson Valley match Saturday at the Bowlerama.

In matches involving other local teams, Eleven Main won a pair from the Ellenville Channel Masters and Three Brothers Egg Farms were blanked by Middletown Lanes.

Chris Gallo, back from his trip to the nationals in California, rolled 226-221-173-620 to lead the Dairymen. Jack Ferraro scored 227-170-222-619 and Larry Petersen chipped in with 183-215-194-611. George Magley did his best for the Tropical with 245-168-211-624.

Jones had games of 950-986-1014 for 2950 sticks against 924-930-913-2767.

Mike Rienzo and Don Herdman led Eleven Main over the Channel Masters. Rienzo was consistent with lines of 205-228-213-646 while Herdman hammered 203-212-187-602. Tim Bilyeu led the Ellenville five with 199-193-226-618.

The locals won the first two games, 1000-922, and 993-964 but lost the final, 1005-976.

Middletown was a rude host to the Three Brothers team. Ralph Smith, the league secretary, anchored a 649 series with games of 211, 216 and 222. The others were well above 500. Bill Lawrence did his best for the locals with 177-224-226-627 but aside from Bob Sheldright, who shot 595, the others had off days. Dick Howard had a 137 game and only a 508 series.

Announce Two Weekly Tournaments For Area Loops Men and Women Roll In Same Division

Plans were announced today for the second annual March of Dimes bowling sweepstakes for all men and women bowlers in sanctioned leagues.

There will be two separate contests, one running from Monday, Jan. 30 through Feb. 6, the second from Feb. 7 through Feb. 13, campaign director Addison Jones has announced.

General chairman is Charles J. Tiano, Freeman sports editor. Mabel Chapman will serve as women's chairman and Frank X. Turck, president of the Kingston Bowling Association, heading the men's division. Dot Rawding will serve as secretary-treasurer.

Men and women will roll in the same division, with 80 percent handicap off 200 scratch. Bowlers may compete as many times as they roll in league competition. All entries must be made through regular sanctioned leagues.

Thirty percent of the entry fee of $100 will be applied to the prize fund and bowlers will share the prize fund 100 percent on the following basis in each of the two weeks: 40 percent first place, 30, 15, 10 and 5 percent.

There will be a $5 prize for high single and $10 for high series each week.

Entry blanks will be available at all times at area alleys.

More than 1,000 entries were registered in last year's highly successful campaign, and a substantial sum was turned over to the March of Dimes sports division.

Assisting the chairmen in the two divisions are: women's division — Ann Manfro, Rose Schatzel, Dot Kherdian, Sis Ballash, Rosemary Pillsworth, Ned Alverson and Reta Frederick.

Serving on the men's committee are: George Robinson, major leagues; Larry McHugh, Hi Lo; Bill Mohr, No-Can-Do; Herbert Wyman and Bill Waterous, Woodstock Lanes; Jim Nottingham, IBM; Charles Forst, Jack Blinder, Rotron and Harry Re, Electrol.

A look at the standings shows three teams with unbeaten records with two of them — Texaco and Ray's — meeting Saturday night in an outstanding attraction.

Maines Wins, 84-61

Raiders Defeat Ray's, 59-57, On Late Baskets by Carpouzis

George Carpouzis, held to a single field goal because of some great defensive work on the part of Ronnie Scheffel, exploded for two baskets in the final 35 seconds of play to give Miller's Raiders a pulsating 59-57 triumph over Ray's Tackle Shop in a battle of unbeaten power.

houses last night in the first game of a Rec league twinbill at the auditorium.

In the second tilt, Maines Auto Parts, with Al Byrne in a starring role, ran roughshod over Rhinebeck, 84-61.

Until those final buckets by Carpouzis, the Ray's cagers looked like winners. They were forced to overcome a 34-26 half-time deficit. It was an uphill battle all the way but two foul shots by Bob Bondar with 50 seconds to play moved the winners in front, 57-55.

The Patented Jumper

The Raiders took the ball out and with 35 seconds remaining, Carpouzis got his hands on it. George, who had trouble shooting with Scheffel breathing hard on him all evening long, let fly with a long jumper and it kissed the cords. This knotted the score.

After Ray's brought the ball up and missed a shot, Joe Klonowski snatched the rebound for his club and it asked for a time out. When play was resumed, Carpouzis took another long jumper and this one went through as clean as the first.

There were still four seconds left when Ray's got the ball in play but a desperate shot by Champ Holstein was off the mark.

Klonowski led the winners with 22 points and a bushel of rebounds. Chick Boice added 14 and backcourt ace Jack Houghaling chipped in with 10. Holstein, Scheffel and Leo Corkery led the losers. Corkery fouled out with 2:30 remaining in the game and his loss was felt.

Byrne was the whole show for Maines Auto Parts. He pumped in 14 baskets, added three foul shots and was all over the floor. His teammates used an effective fast break and led, 53-24 at half-time. For all intents and purposes, this decided things.

Marty Kase, Billy DuBois, Tom Waters and Bob Maines were all double figure scorers for Maines. Ron Miller scored 29 points and Billy Haug added 11 for Rhinebeck.

Four other New York-New Jersey bowlers—Lou Campi, Al Faragelli, Frank Santore and Joe Brown—reached the semi-finals but were eliminated at that point.

Thieves Net $224 In Third Attempt At Village Diner

Thieves found $224.90 during Sunday night and early Monday morning in a third attempt in the past two months to burglarize Sauergets Diner at Main Street and Washington Avenue, Sauergets Village police reported.

Conrad A. Bourguignon told Sgt. Harold Mills that burglars gained entry at the rear door of the diner and found the money hidden by the night man in a steam table. He discovered the theft when he opened the restaurant at 5:55 this morning.

Sgt. Mills said the rear door was forced by use of a tire iron or small bar.

Patrolmen Donald Sullivan and Gordon Keeley on duty this morning were continuing the investigation.

The diner was entered on December 23 and some change was reported missing by the owner. On December 13, the Bourguignon said nothing was missing.

Village police are also investigating the theft of $55.50 taken from two of three professionals in the Knauth Building, Main and Market Streets on January 16.

Police Chief Arthur W. Richer said the second floor law offices of Francello and Brinnier and Schirmer and Carnright, and the optometrist office of Anthony Vicevich were entered by means of forcing the front doors of each office.

A secretary's desk in the Francello and Brinnier office yielded $5.50, and five $10 bills were reported missing from the office of Schirmer and Carnright.

Nothing was reported taken from the Vicevich office or the Masonic Temple rooms on the third floor of the building, Chief Richer said.

The ancient Egyptians used sand molds to form bottles and jars 4,000 years ago.

MOVING PHONE RECORDS — Some of the records of the New York Telephone Company are removed by Robert Raymond and Arthur Cross from the firm's Henry Street office. All of the records were transferred over the weekend to the main phone company building, 449 Broadway, where business offices were formerly located. The transfer job was handled by Vogel Van and Storage, Inc., of 545 Broadway, local agents for Allied Van Lines. (Freeman photo).

Bohan Reports Legion Roster Has Increased

The American Legion Department Commander, Aldo R. Bedetto, due to the snow storm was unable to attend a dinner Saturday night in his honor, given by the Rensselaer County American Legion, at Kapp's Inn-The-Hollow in Rensselaer.

Thomas Bohan, Third District Commander, in his talk on membership for the department commander, reported that the Third District, with a membership of 9639, was leading the ten districts of the Department of New York in the 1961 membership contest. Bohan thanked all County and Post Commanders, membership chairmen, committee members and all legionnaires for their efforts and asked for a continuation to enroll all eligible veterans as members of the American Legion. To help to reach all former Legionnaires who may not have renewed their 1961 membership, the Department of New York has Membership Program called "Operation Welcome Back."

The names and addresses compiled from post records on "drop-outs" for 1958, 1959 and 1960 is to be sent to Department headquarters by February 15. There is to be a consecrated drive on renewals of these former members with awards to the Posts showing the greatest accomplishment in this program.

Sign Cable Contract

MONTREAL (AP) — More than $50 million in contracts have been signed for construction of the world's longest telephone cable. The cable running more than 9,000 miles under the Pacific Ocean and linking Canada, New Zealand and Australia, is scheduled for 1964.

The arrests followed a call for a patrol car by Officer Leon Fitzgerald.

Youths Accused Of Slaying Man, Woman Upstate

MEDINA, N. Y. (AP) — Two youths were charged today with first-degree murder in the slaying of a man and woman whose frozen bodies were found behind a barn on a farm four miles southwest of this Orleans County village, near the hamlet of Shelby Center.

Artemio Rodriguez, 21, and Rafael Carde, 19, both of Medina, were being held by State Police for arraignment in connection with the deaths of Miss Noreen Russell, 26, of Medina, and Jose Torres, 27, of Middleport.

Police said Rodriguez had admitted shooting the couple after Torres refused to loan his car to Rodriguez for a trip to Florida.

A third man was being sought by police in connection with the slayings.

The bodies were found early Sunday by trappers. Empty .38-caliber shells and a kitchen knife were found nearby.

Torres' ear, in which, police said, all five persons had been riding Saturday night on a round of visits to restaurants, stood about 300 yards away.

Police said it had become stuck in the snow and was abandoned.

The cause of death could not be determined, police said, until results of an autopsy were known later today.

Police said all the persons involved, except Miss Russell, were natives of Puerto Rico.

Police said Rodriguez had admitted shooting the couple after Torres refused to loan his car to Rodriguez for a trip to Florida.

The only flight officer to survive was Capt. William P. Poe, 32, of Miami, Fla., a check pilot.

He suffered critical injuries, but was reported out of danger after surgery Saturday.

Civil Aeronautics Board investigators said it would be at least three days before they could talk to Poe to learn the possible crash cause.

It was reported that the application would be made to Justice Greenberg this afternoon in New York City.

Ryan was sentenced to a term of from two to four years under three bribery counts following trial here last August.

It was also reported that Justice Greenberg probably would be in Kingston later this week, probably Thursday, at which time the Special Grand Jury would be excused from further service. That is the grand jury which has heard the kickback evidence and returned the Ryan indictment.

Crudup claimed that Falkner had cut his overcoat and the latter claimed Crudup struck him. Falkner listed his occupation as truck driver, and Crudup said he is a farmer. They posted $250 bail each.

The arrests followed a call for a patrol car by Officer Leon Fitzgerald.

2 Fires Reported

A basement short circuit in a downtown church and oven trouble on Farrelly Street resulted in fire calls Saturday and Sunday. Units from Central and Rapid Hose Company answered a call at 9:50 a. m., Sunday to the Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Redeemer 106 Wurts Street where a short circuit in a basement terminal box caused some smoke. Excessive oven gas ignited in the Walter H. Miller home, 112 Farrelly Street, but caused no serious damage. Units from Central Station and the Wicks Company answered a call at 5:28 p. m., Saturday.
